

Telework News Digest: January 2012

Our pick of Telework resources & ideas on the web this month

Just click to read articles that pique your interest!

Having trouble with the links? Open the attached PDF version

As the Seattle area prepares for [potentially] the biggest snow storm in 40+ years, we're reminded of the importance of Telework as a part of every business's Continuity of Operations Plan, and of having systems in place to allow employees to work from home when they need to.

Being part of a team that's still plugged in and able to perform "business as usual," I'm particularly appreciative right now of the people dedicated to supporting, researching and pushing the Telework agenda, and for the resources at my [and your] fingertips...

Stay Warm & Safe,

Vicky Clarke

[And I get to build a snowman during my lunch break!]

EDUCATION:

★ JOIN The Free Webinar: Thursday January 19, 2012

From Planning to Preparedness: Build Your Telework Strategy

Hear from local experts: WSU, Kitsap Telework Pilot Project & WSDOT

Monica Babine, Senior Associate, The Program for Digital Initiatives, Washington State University Extension & Kitsap Telework Pilot Project Team Member

Brooke Hamilton, Washington State Department of Transportation

ADVOCACY:

★ SIGN UP FOR National Telework Week: March 4 to 9th, 2012

Pledge your support and determine your impact and savings by teleworking during the week of March 5-9, 2012

RESEARCH:

★ CONTRIBUTE TO a Survey on Working from Home: Add your voice to research on who's actually telecommuting, how often they're doing it, their attitudes about their jobs, the often contentious subject of teleworker productivity. Survey closes on January 31.

Find out more Take the 8-10 minute survey now

COMMENTS?

★ Email Us!
